Talking Birds with the Centres for the History of Medicine in Dublin and Warwick present

A theatrical examination of diaspora, displacement and mental disorders in the 19th century

This land is cruel and unforgiving and many more have gone where I go, to seek not wealth but fairer living across the sea and far from Sligo

Thurs 3 – Sat 5 July 2014
1pm and 7.30pm
The New Theatre, Temple Bar, Dublin: [Connolly’s bookshop]

Tickets: €8 (€4) – 1pm, €10 (€5) – 7.30pm Box Office: 01 670 3361
thenewtheatre.com

Thursday evening show followed by expert panel discussion and reception. Saturday lunchtime show followed by post show discussion.

For CAPTIONING (subtitles) via mobile devices, email de@talkingbirds.co.uk in advance warwick.ac.uk/maladyofmigration talkingbirds.co.uk @birdmail #migration

Please be advised that this production contains references to mental health issues and historical practices which may be considered sensitive.
Age guidance: 12 and over.