

Healing Cultures, Medicine and the Therapeutic Uses of Water in the English Midlands, 1840-1948

Conference Papers

Jane Adams and Hilary Marland, 'Accommodating the Poor: The Role of the Voluntary Hospital in Nineteenth-Century English Spas', presented at conference 'Spas in Britain and in France in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries', Brest, May 2005.

Jane Adams, 'The Medicalisation of Space in a Nineteenth-Century Hydropathic Health Resort: Malvern in the 1840s', presented at conference 'Medicalisation of Spaces, Spaces of Medicalisation: New Debates in the History of Medicine and Science', University of Kent, 12-13 November 2005.

Jane Adams and Nicky McIntosh, 'The Collaborative Programme between the Art Gallery and Museum, the Royal Pump Rooms, Leamington Spa, and the Centre for the History of Medicine, University of Warwick', presented at conference 'Apothecaries, Art and Architecture: Interpreting Georgian Medicine', London, 24-25 November 2005.

Jane Adams, 'From Well-woman to Hydrotherapist', presented at Society for the Social History of Medicine Annual Conference, University of Warwick, June 2006.

Jane Adams and Hilary Marland, 'Fluid boundaries and Diluted Principles: Water and Healing Approaches in Nineteenth-Century England', presented at workshop 'Kill or Cure: Water and Health in the Nineteenth Century', Venice, March 2007.

Jane Adams, 'Varieties of Spa Practice in the Nineteenth Century', presented at University of Birmingham, History of Medicine Seminar Series, June 2007.

Jane Adams, 'Healthy Places and Healthy Regimens: British Health Resorts in the Interwar Period', presented at 'Environment, Health and History', European Association for the History of Medicine and Health Conference', London, September 2007.

Hilary Marland, "'Wherever Rain Falls, Springs Bubble, or Rivers Run": Hydropathy at Home in Late Nineteenth-Century Britain', presented at European Association for the History of Medicine and Health Conference', London, September 2007.

Hilary Marland, 'Domestic Uses of the Water Cure in Nineteenth-Century Britain: Orthodox, Alternative, or Folk?', Workshop 'The Medical Marketplace and Medical Tradition: The Interfaces between Orthodox, Alternative and Folk Practice in the 19th and 20th Centuries', presented at Centre for the History of Medicine in Ireland, University College Dublin, February 2008.

Hilary Marland, 'Curing with Water in the Nineteenth Century', presented at Spring Medical History Meeting, Amsterdam, March 2008.

Jane Adams, 'Health Crusaders and Commerce - the Case of Hydropathy', presented at workshop 'Health, Well-being and Commerce 1500- 2000', University of Wolverhampton, 25 March 2009.

Jane Adams, 'Stagnant waters? Medical Hydrology in England 1914 to 1970', presented at European Association for the History of Medicine and Health Conference, Heidelberg, September 2009.

Public Conference '60%: Water and the Body', an interdisciplinary day-conference, held at the Royal Pump Rooms, 15 January 2005 (Hilary Marland, Molly Rogers and Alison Plumridge (Leamington Spa Art Gallery & Museum)). Will be a link under conferences

Two walking tour guides have been produced by Jane Adams in conjunction with the Leamington Spa Art Gallery & Museum: 'Discovering Old Leamington' and 'Taking the Waters'.