THE UNIVERSITY OF WARWICK
Registration at WMG before the Start of Term

You must register with WMG before the start of term. Remember registration is not the same as enrolment with the University; you must do both.

Please come to the MSc Student Centre at the International Manufacturing Centre (IMC). The IMC is number 28 on the campus map (PDF).

See our website for more information about how to get to campus (including the coach pick-up services).

You should arrive at the time listed below for your course.

What should I bring to registration?

If you already have your University card, then please bring it with you. If not, it is helpful if you know your student ID number, since this helps us identify you quickly.

Once registered, you will attend a first introductory lecture which will explain the basics of your course. You’ll have the opportunity to ask questions, so bring a pen with you. These sessions are open to new WMG MSc students only; friends attending courses at other departments, agents and chaperones will not be admitted. We may demand to see your ID at any time to ensure this policy is adhered to.

How long will registration take?

You should plan on registration (including the introductory lecture) taking 2-3 hours. We will do our best to register you as quickly as possible, but please bear in mind there will be queues at busy times.

Can a friend or agent register for me?

No. It is absolutely essential that you register in person; you must not arrange for someone to register on your behalf.

What if I am late getting to the UK?

If you know you will arrive after 30th September it is essential that you inform us using the late arrivals form. There are limits to lateness. If you are arriving late, you must still register with us when you get here. If you are an overseas student you must have a visa valid for study before we will accept you onto the course.

I’ve already enrolled at the University, do I need to register with WMG too?

Yes. Enrolment at the University and registration at WMG are different; you must do both. The University will email you in September with instructions on how to enrol.
Useful Information

Timetables

Module schedules are not made available until the second week of term as they are dependent on many factors, including final student numbers, which we do not know until after enrolment. You will get an opportunity to select elective modules from the middle of October.

In general, you can expect to have two to three core modules before the Christmas break, possibly with some electives too, with the rest running January to June 2017.

Modules will be finished for all students by the middle of June 2017, but for some it will be earlier. Your studies continue after June and you are expected to remain at Warwick and complete your dissertation from June to mid-September. Time management is essential, as you will be expected to be working on your dissertation project throughout the year.

Students’ Union

The Students’ Union is a valuable resource that can enrich your time at Warwick by providing opportunities to get involved with societies and clubs, including the WMG Society which organises social events and day trips specifically for WMG students. The Union also provides places to eat, drink and have fun.

The Union can also offer independent advice and help on all kinds of subjects relating to student life. When you enrol at Warwick, you automatically become a member of the Union.

Facebook

For a chance to get to know your future classmates before you arrive, please join our 2016 Facebook group: http://tinyurl.com/wmg2016

If your Facebook profile name is not your real name, please email wmgmasters@warwick.ac.uk to let us know who you are.

Vacations

This is a full-time, one year course. You do not have the same holidays as undergraduate students and in particular you do not get formal holidays at Christmas or Easter. However the University closes over the Christmas period (23rd December 2016 to 2nd January 2017) so you will be free from timetabled modules during this time, Remember however you will still have assignments to complete and your project to work on during that time.

Do not book any flight tickets for trips home until you know your module schedule. This will be available during the second week of term. You must request permission from the University for any absence of 5 days or more during your study.

Critical Thinking Skills

Writing coherent, persuasive arguments and demonstrating critical analysis is a key skill that you will develop through the year, but is something that some students take a while to grasp. The book ‘Critical Thinking Skills’ by Stella Cottrell is a good resource to help develop these skills, and we would recommend it if you want to do some background reading before the course starts.

MSc Project

The MSc project is, for most courses half of the degree (except students on CSE and HOM), so thinking now about potential subject areas is time well spent. The topic of your project must be relevant to the course that you are registered for and will be your ‘unique selling point’ when applying for jobs after the course.

Think about where you want to be in five years, what sort of jobs would help you to get there and what project would help you in that journey. Any background reading and research that helps you form a clearer understanding of potential project areas would be helpful to you while you are waiting for the start of the course.
