SECTION THEMES

Everyday and Cultural Political Economy
New Actors and Networks in International Political Economy
Gender in International Political Economy
The Changing Geography of International Political Economy
Global Development and International Political Economy

James Brassett is Reader in International Political Economy at the University of Warwick. His work focuses on the ethics and politics of globalisation; engaging the possibilities and limits performed through everyday discourses of global governance, crisis, and resistance. His most recent book publication is Cosmopolitanism and Global Financial Reform: A Pragmatic Approach to the Tobin Tax, published in 2010 by Routledge.

André Broome is Associate Professor in International Political Economy at the University of Warwick. His research examines the practice of global economic governance and his most recent book publication is Issues and Actors in the Global Political Economy, published in 2014 by Palgrave Macmillan.

Juanita Elias is Associate Professor in International Political Economy at the University of Warwick. Her research explores the way in which gender relations and identities operate and are reproduced within a range of political economic settings, and she has a particular interest in the gender biases and assumptions that play out in state development strategies – especially within the context of debates around the rise of the regulatory state in Southeast Asia. Her next book The Everyday Political Economy of Southeast Asia (co-edited with Lena Rethel) is forthcoming with Cambridge University Press.

Lena Rethel is Associate Professor in International Political Economy at the University of Warwick. Her research explores the politics of finance and development, the design of capital markets and the emergence of Islamic finance with a regional focus on Southeast Asia. Her next book The Everyday Political Economy of Southeast Asia (co-edited with Juanita Elias) is forthcoming with Cambridge University Press.

Ben Richardson is Associate Professor in International Political Economy at the University of Warwick. His research relates to the international political economy of trade and development. He is particularly interested in the governance of primary commodities through certification schemes and labour standards in trade agreements. His latest book is Sugar which is due out in the Polity Resources series in September 2015.

Conference Support

The organizers wish to thank the Centre for the Study of Globalisation and Regionalisation, the Department of Politics and International Studies, and the Faculty of Social Sciences for providing administrative and financial support for this event as part of the University of Warwick's 50th Anniversary celebrations.

A particular note of thanks goes to Chris Hughes, Sue Davies, Kieran Moore, Maria Giraudo, Matthias Kranke, Sean McDaniel, Lisa Soares, Lisa Tilley, and Lauren Tooker, whose support and assistance helped to make the conference possible.

Best Graduate Student Paper Award

All graduate student conference papers that were submitted to ipeconference@warwick.ac.uk by the deadline of 7 May 2015 were considered for the New Directions in IPE Best Graduate Student Paper Award.

To be eligible for the award, graduate papers must have been submitted by the deadline and be 3,000 – 4,000 words in length (papers over 5,000 words in length inclusive of all notes and references were not be considered for the award).

All papers should include a cover page that details the author's institutional affiliation and email details, note whether the paper is a 'theory note' or a 'research note', and be based on the instructions for authors detailed on the next page.

The award is decided by the conference organizers, and will be presented to the graduate student whose conference paper is judged as making the most outstanding contribution to theoretical innovation or empirical knowledge in International Political Economy.

The winner of the award will receive a certificate and Palgrave Macmillan book vouchers to the value of £200.00.

BEST GRADUATE STUDENT PAPER AWARD SUPPORT

The organizers wish to thank Palgrave Macmillan, publisher of the Palgrave International Political Economy series and the Global Reordering Pivot series, for sponsoring the Best Graduate Student Paper Award.

Palgrave IPE Series

For over 30 years, the IPE series edited by Timothy M. Shaw has tracked the development of the global political economy in both analysis and structure over the last three decades. It has always had a concentration on the global South. Now the South increasingly challenges the North as the centre of development, also reflected in a growing number of submission and publications on indebted Eurozone economies in Southern Europe. An indispensable resource for scholars and researchers, the series examines a variety of capitalisms and connections by focusing on emerging economies, companies and sectors, debates and policies. It informs diverse policy communities as the established trans-Atlantic North declines and 'the rest', especially the BRICS, rise.

Palgrave Global Reordering Pivot Series

Edited by Shaun Breslin and André Broome, the Global Reordering Pivot series explores how the contemporary dynamics of the global political economy and global security in the twenty-first century are experiencing a series of fundamental transitions, which are challenging and transforming the existing global order. Based in the Centre for the Study of Globalisation and Regionalisation at Warwick and building on a major EU funded research project on Global Reordering, the series focuses on changing modes of global governance and multipolarity; global public policy networks; emerging powers and multipolar alternatives; regions and regionalism; as well as regional and global leadership. Recent publications in the series include The Year the European Crisis Ended by Erik Jones and The European Union in a Multipolar World by Megan Dee.

Information for Participants

GENERAL INFORMATION

- Please see the conference website for further information: www.warwick.ac.uk/ipeconference
- For queries not addressed on the conference website, please contact the organizers at: ipeconference@warwick.ac.uk
- If you are on Twitter, please add the hashtag #IPEWarwick to conference-related tweets.

GUIDANCE FOR PANEL CHAIRS

Session chairs are welcome to spend two minutes following the presentations to briefly reflect on the core contributions of the papers before taking audience questions. Strict time management of the length of presentations (10-15 minutes) will help to keep each session on schedule and allow sufficient time for questions, discussion, and debate.

GUIDANCE FOR PAPER PRESENTERS

Each presenter should talk for a maximum of 10-15 minutes outlining the main theoretical argument or empirical findings in their paper. PowerPoint facilities will be available and presenters should load slides before their panel session starts to avoid delays. 'Theory note' and 'research note' papers should be 3,000-4,000 words in length, based on the following instructions for authors:

- Theory notes should make a straightforward intervention in an ongoing theoretical or conceptual debate or dilemma that speaks directly to one of the conference section themes on New Directions in IPE. Theory notes should make an important and compelling argument about theoretical innovation and theory development in IPE, and should demonstrate the relevance to empirical research and how this advances the 'state of the art' in the field.
- Research notes should make a novel and focused contribution to empirical knowledge that speaks directly to one of the conference section themes on New Directions in IPE. Research notes should include preliminary empirical findings that demonstrate the importance and novelty of the research, as well as their relevance to important theoretical or empirical discussions in the field.

Conference papers submitted by May 7th are available to download at: www.warwick.ac.uk/ipeconference/conferencepapers (password protected site – accessible for delegates only). Please do not cite or circulate papers without the author's permission.

Speaker Niheer Dasandi (University College London)

Speaker Adrienne Roberts (University of Manchester)

Speaker Kees Van Der Pijl (University of Sussex)

Matthew Watson is Professor of Political Economy in the Department of Politics and International Studies, University of Warwick. His research focuses on the multiple ways in which the market economy becomes embedded in everyday experience. His most recent book publication is Uneconomic Economics and the Crisis of the Model World (Palgrave Macmillan, 2014). With Benjamin J. Cohen, he is the series editor of the Edward Elgar Handbooks of Research on International Political Economy Series.

Niheer Dasandi is a Research Fellow with the Developmental Leadership Program, University College London. His research focuses on the politics of development, the international political economy of development, and public attitudes to development in the global North and South. With David Hudson, he is co-editor of the Handbook of the International Political Economy of Development in the Edward Elgar Handbooks of Research on International Political Economy Series.

Adrienne Roberts is Lecturer in International Politics in the Department of Politics, University of Manchester. Her research focuses on the gendered relations of finance and banking in Anglo countries, the emerging alliance between private corporations, the international development institutions, state governments, and NGOs in support of the business case for gender equality, and the gendered nature of the criminalization and policing of poverty in Canada, the US, and the UK. With Juanita Elias, she is co-editor of the Handbook of the International Political Economy of Gender in the Edward Elgar Handbooks of Research on International Political Economy Series.

Kees Van Der Pijl is Emeritus Professor of International Relations in the Department of International Relations, University of Sussex. His research focuses on transnational classes, the structure of the global political economy, the history of ideas in international relations and global political economy, and modes of foreign relations. He is editor of the Handbook of the International Political Economy of Production in the Edward Elgar Handbooks of Research on International Political Economy Series.
