

Theory for a Global Age Series

Series Editors: Gurminder K. Bhambra and Robin Cohen

Globalization is widely viewed as the current condition of the world, but there is little engagement with how this changes the way we understand it. The 'Theory for a Global Age' series addresses the impact of globalization on the social sciences and humanities. Each title will focus on a particular theoretical issue or topic of empirical controversy and debate, addressing theory in a more comprehensive and interconnected manner. Written by scholars from across the globe, this series will explore different perspectives to examine globalization from diverse viewpoints. True to its global character, the Theory for a Global Age Series will be available worldwide through a Creative Commons license, which will allow for greater academic discourse, breaking down barriers and furthering the global dialogue which the series aims to develop.

The series seeks to:

- PROVIDE the best new theoretical work bridging the social sciences and humanities
- CREATE a series of short, high quality, argument-driven books that provide a strong grounding on diverse global topics
- INTERROGATE alternative and suppressed theories and traditions
- STIMULATE debate and interest across disciplines and national boundaries
- PUBLISH simultaneously online and in print, in a way which is aligned with its global ethos
- ENABLE discourse between divergent intellectual traditions around issues of mutual concern and interest

Forthcoming Titles:

Eurafrica: An Untold History

by Peo Hansen and Stefan Jonsson

The book examines the history of the 'Eurafrican project' as it evolved from the Pan-European movement in the 1920s to its institutionalization in the European Economic Community (i.e. today's EU) in the late 1950s. It also discusses the legacy of Eurafrica in the current world order.

The Decolonial Option

by Walter D. Mignolo and Rolando Vazquez

This book provides an accessible introduction to the major tenets of the modernity/coloniality research agenda. In particular, it focuses on the decolonial option as a prospective horizon derived from the analytic of modernity/coloniality and the decolonial projects.

Connected Sociologies

by Gurminder K Bhambra

This book addresses the relationship between sociology, social theory and postcolonialism; the latter being one of the most distinctive critical approaches to have emerged over the last two decades. This book provides an original and provocative investigation of key issues linking these fields.

Series Editors

- Gurminder K Bhambra, Associate Professor of Sociology and Director of the Social Theory Centre, University of Warwick, UK
- Robin Cohen, Professor of Development Studies and Director of the International Migration Institute, University of Oxford, UK

Editorial Board

- Michael Burawoy, Professor of Sociology, University of California Berkeley, USA
- Neera Chandhoke, Professor of Political Science, University of Delhi, India
- Peo Hansen, Associate Professor of Political Science and Ethnic Studies, Linköping University, Sweden
- John Holmwood, Professor of Sociology, University of Nottingham, UK
- Walter Mignolo, Professor of Literature and Romance Studies, Duke University, USA
- Emma Porio, Professor of Anthropology and Sociology, Ateneo de Manila University, Philippines
- Boaventura de Sousa Santos, Professor of Sociology and Distinguished Legal Scholar, University of Coimbra, Portugal

Contact Details

Series Editors

Gurminder K Bhambra

Department of Sociology
University of Warwick
Coventry, CV4 7AL
United Kingdom

E: g.k.bhambra@warwick.ac.uk

Robin Cohen

Department of International Development
University of Oxford
3 Mansfield Road
Oxford, OX1 3TB
United Kingdom

E: robin.cohen@qeh.ox.ac.uk

Senior Commissioning Editor

Emily Salz

Bloomsbury Publishing Group Plc
36 Soho Square
London W1D 3QY
United Kingdom

T: +44 (0)20 7494 2111

F: +44 (0)20 7434 0151

E: emily.salz@bloomsbury.com