Computer Science and IT

Professional Institutions

www.bcs.org
BCS website – plenty of information, web links etc.

www.iap.org.uk
Institute of Analysts and Programmers - professional organisation for people who work in the development installation and testing of business systems and computer software.

www.iop.org
Institute of Physics website – very informative on scientific careers generally.

www.engc.org.uk
The engineering council site – contains links to institutions, publications.

Careers Sites

www.targetjobs.co.uk/IT

Online copy of information also available in the Careers Hub with links to employers

www.insidecareers.co.uk
Click on IT for lots more information and useful links to careers directly related to IT as well.

Computer Games Industry

www.gamesindustry.biz

www.gamasutra.com

www.ideaworks3d.com - Independent organisation specialising in games

www.jagex.com
Founded in 2001, Cambridge-based, 295 employees now and more than 5m users. Develops and operates online computer games particularly a multiplayer 3D adventure game called RuneScape.

www.rmgraduates.com
Research Machines - Engineer and supply ICT to the UK education sector

IT/Communications specialists and consultancies

www.tibco.com
Integration software to connect incompatible IT assets and process

www.mxtelecom.com

www.dataconnection.com

www.detica.com

www.dorsetsoftware.com
Smaller but fast growing business

www.ocado.com
Internet retailer which offers an IT graduate stream

www.uk.capgemini.com Technology, outsourcing and consultancy in some 30 countries

www.sanderson.com
IT Support for manufacturing, distribution, and sales applications

www.atosorigin.co.uk International, broadly focused IT services company

www.ipl.com
IT Consultancy and software

www.urbanscience.com
IT solutions to maximise the effectiveness of sales and distribution

www.accenture.com
Major international consultancy with strong focus on IT

IT suppliers to Financial Service clients and City firms

www.factset.com

www.fidessa.com

www.chp.co.uk

CHP Consulting a smaller but growing supplier of IT to the financial service industry

Other related employers who have been in touch with Warwick recently

www.arm.com
ARM – design/ R&D of digital products

www.siemens.co.uk
Broad technology based company with plenty of IT scope

www.bt.com
Communications and IT. Offer ICT and research stream within their grad programme.

www.ibm.com/uk

Focused around innovation. See also IBM's Hursley site (www.hursley.ibm.com) is IBM's largest software development site outside the USA www.microsoft.com/uk/careers

General Interest relating to technology careers

www.nef.org.uk
National Energy Foundation– environmental engineering site

www.physicsweb.org/jobs

www.e4engineering.com

www.technologyhorizons.co.uk
Information on various technology sectors, and some jobs too.

www.newscientistjobs.com
New Scientist jobs & careers guide - click on Careers Guide at the top of the page or register for email alerts.

www.eevl.ac.uk
Portal for engineering, mathematics and computing

www.space-careers.com Specialist site featuring news and jobs in the space industry. Somewhat US -focussed, unsurprisingly, but still useful.

www.applegate.co.uk
Excellent listing of mainly SME's in technology by product, location etc. Has links to their websites and in many cases names of key executives. Excellent for networking.

www.sgr.org.uk
Scientists for Global Responsibility (SGR) website - Ethical careers resource for scientists, engineers, architects, and technologists.

www.the-mia.com
Motorsport Industry Association website – good as a first resource for motorsport companies search

Agencies

Amongst many agencies catering for the sector are:

Aardvark Swift - www.aswift.com offers advice and some insights into getting into the industry, esp. gaming

Matchtech – www.matchtech.com

Plus many more – see www.rec- uk.com for a full listing of consultancies of interest to you. Remember though – they aren't working for you, they're working for them! So don't hang all your hopes on an agency going all out to find you your perfect job.