Big Data in Cancer

18 MARCH 2015

The focus of the workshop will be to discuss how various 'big' sources of cancer data can be used to help improve the treatment and outcomes for patients. The speakers come from a wide range of backgrounds and perspectives, and the aim will be to move beyond the hype of big data to a more grown-up discussion about the potential and challenges in this hugely important area of medicine.

Speakers

Walter Kolch

Florian Markowetz

Andrew Teschendorf
